THE FOURTH OF JULY .- Yesterday as more generally obseved here-abouts than any Fourth of July for some years. A large majority of our people took "a day off" and a genuine holiday aspect was observable everywhere. As usual the postoffice, telephone exchange and other public places observed Sunday hours. The amount of explosives consumed during the day and right seemed much greater than on previous Independence Day, and the small boy was in his glory. In some small boy was in his glory. In some cases magazines of the latter class had been exhausted early, but when paterfamilias glanced at the morning papers and read of the signal triumph of the Americans at Santiago the youngsters' stock was immediately replenished and there was an attempt to make as much noise as possible. The excursion boats passed down the river careening under their heavy loads of humanity, while the trains coming in and going out of the city were taxed to their fullest capacity. Many private parties which had been previously formed utilized saliboats or wagons to take them to quiet groves or seeluded spots on the lower over banks, where beside gurghing brooks or subbling springs they swung hammocks and whiled away the day. At night the city was "paint-Powerful red and white lights were to be seen in every direction, and the beautiful banks of light, the meteors from roman candles, the whirring fire from picjennies and other pyrotechic contrivances, the hissing rockets and fire ballons produced a dazzling and beautiful scene. The explosion of guns, pistols, and crackers, the latter from the thickness a pencil to those approaching bologna sausages in bulk, was incessant. It was approaching mid-night ere the explosions ceased and the city settled down to its normal con-

THE HOT WAVE which had hovered over this section of the country for the past four or five days has given place to lower temperature and a northeast wind. The range of the thermometer from last Thursday to Sunday was the highest noted hereabouts since the torrid wave of 1887, when the mercury reached 104°. All day Saturday hu-manity sweltered under the terrible rays of the sun, and the heat at night prevented sleep, causing people to rise Sunday morning unrefreshed. When day dawned there was every indication that the record would be broken, and it was, the mercury having climbed to 103° and in some places to 104°, as against 100° Saturday and 97° the previous Sunday. As the day grew older the sun "fulled" and his piercing rays became dangerous to all who exposed themselves. The churches presented many vacant pews and in some of them the night services were omitted. The temperature during a part of yesterday was uncomfortably high, but it was evi a northeast breeze prevailed.

On account of the heat in a majority of the regiments the men were exused from most drills except the weekly inspection.
